What do you think about the changes to bus routes into central London?

Transport for London

survey

Introduction

Buses are one of the main ways that people travel around London.

Buses are important because they:

- give drivers another way to travel instead of using their car

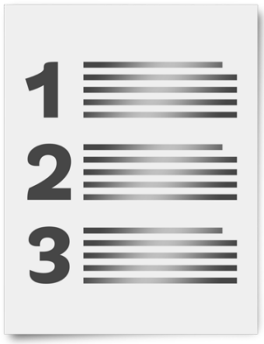

- can lead to less traffic on the roads which would make roads less dangerous and less polluted.

TfL has looked at how people are using buses that run from the north, south, east, and west into central London.

TfL has come up with possible changes to bus routes into central London.

TfL has a list of possible changes to the bus routes which should:

- make it easier to use the bus service

- make sure buses run often and on time in the areas that need them the most.

Some bus routes might stop running.

Bus routes would only stop running if there are other buses nearby that travel along the same route.

Some bus routes may change so you may need to take more than one bus to complete a journey.

TfL would like to know more about the way you use London bus services at the moment.
